FOR PARENTS

New Student Orientation welcomes your family to the KU community. We provide services to help students with their transition to a new academic environment.

This is an exciting and apprehensive time in your student's life. To help your student with the transition to independence, attend an orientation session. Parents/guests will attend sessions that focus on typical concerns.

*Sincerely,
New Student Orientation*

During orientation, students will meet with academic advisers; attend interest sessions on campus involvement, safety and health issues; and meet faculty, staff, other new students, and the Orientation Assistants. All new students and their parents should plan to attend orientation.

Orientation programs are based on students' majors. Registration is required and is online at www.orientation.ku.edu. Do not make travel plans until your orientation date is confirmed.
